Just Three Words: Athlete, Mother, Survivor, How One Brave Woman Against All Odds Wins The Race Of Her Life

Synopsis

At age 46, world-class triathlete, dietitian, and mother, Karen Newman, was on her knees, begging for her life to end. But just when her eating disorders had once again warped her life into a shame-filled nightmare of secrets, a diagnosis of advanced breast cancer ignited a fire of courage and deepened her faith. This gripping story reveals the incredible power words have to shatter or empower us and the astonishing potential that love has to heal. Karen inspired thousands as she continued training and competing in triathlons throughout her grueling cancer treatments, and was featured on the NBC Today show twice because of her remarkable change of heart and rousing message of hope. Told with candid truth and humor, Karen's touching memoir weaves the agonies of anorexia, bulimia, and cancer, with the thrill of young love, miraculous wins on the race course, and victory over disease. With the wisdom forged in the valleys of despair and on the peaks of triumph, Just Three Words captures the indomitable spirit of one brave woman who against all odds survives, triumphs and finds the purpose in it all.

~ Paula Prentis, LMSW: Author, Speaker, Co-founder of YourSelfSeries.com

As a breast cancer survivor, I am moved and inspired by Just Three Words. Karen Newman's remarkable journey, courageously facing multiple challenges all at once, speaks volumes to all who are overwhelmed and exhausted in their own lives. On every page, Karen's growing faith, positive attitude, and resilience is present in overcoming the unspeakable. Just Three Words gives the reader a personal glimpse into the life of a deeply genuine mentor, doer, and believer.

~ Ann Loudon: Ten year chair, TCU Frogs for the Cure in partnership with Susan G. Komen

Karen's personal story is intimate and riveting. Over the last decade, I competed with Karen at triathlons as her story was unfolding. I witnessed her grace as she exalted in "just finishing," in races where she had excelled in the past. She has exhibited a joyful demeanor and patience through the years which has led to her victorious outcome. Just Three Words is her amazing story to share with the world.

~ Donna Smyers: Physical Therapist and six-time Iron Man Triathlon Age-Group World Champion

Karen's profound story will inspire you to live boldly, love fiercely, and walk humbly with God through all of life's valleys and mountaintops. Contagious hope is woven throughout each page.

~ Jeannie Cunnion: Author of Parenting the Wholehearted Child.

Having personally witnessed the power of Karen's unvarnished faith in the face of her very worst fears and struggles, I can assure you that what you read in these pages is authentic, genuine and saccharine-free. Her unflinching honesty about her trials and weaknesses only serves to magnify her remarkable courage, confidence and sheer determination to rise to the highest levels in athletics and in life. Just Three Words is a shining example of how God's power has worked through one humble woman to accomplish the nearly-impossible.

Many have looked to Karen for encouragement in their own struggles— as well they should— and this book will serve to uplift thousands or millions more.

~ The Rev. cd Hillary R. Bercovici, Ph.D: Episcopal Priest & Senior Fellow, Trinity Institute for Spiritual Formation, Greenwich, CT

Just Three Words is a book you will not be able to put down until you, too, cross the finish line with the author.

~ John Stetson, MD: Orthopedic Surgeon

Karen's infectious enthusiasm, energy and resolve have not only driven her to compete and produce results, but have provided her with something much more durable and influential— a voice. Her unique blend of compassion and veracity are both refreshing and gripping. This dynamic story is sure to inspire.

~ Adam Avery: pastor, Church of the Well; Burlington, VT Just Three Words

is a magnificent story of how God ultimately uses everything for good. (Romans 8:28) With unfiltered transparency, Karen Newman courageously pours out her life's triumphs and travails, then takes us on a sweeping journey of upliftment. You will find hope and healing as God feeds your soul in Just Three Words. ~ Susan Stuart: Westport CBS Teaching Director Karen's story holds out the gift of true friendship to any of us who have struggled with the hiddenness of God in our pain or the agony of watching a loved one suffer. It is also an inspiring testimony to the love and healing of the one who promises never to leave us or forsake us.

~ Reverend Drew Williams Senior Pastor Trinity Church Karen Newman's truly amazing journey of perseverance and inspiration to others, along with her athletic skills, earned her recognition by the National Senior Games Association as one of our 2014 "Personal Best" athletes. The program seeks to use real life examples to motivate everyone to pursue active, healthy lifestyles. Karen is always encouraging others and is a great ambassador for the senior games movement. We look forward to having her compete in our games for many years to come. ~ Marc T. Riker, CEO, National Senior Games Association Karen Newman is a champion in every sense of the word. With sheer will and determination, she has overcome. More than overcome, she has thrived. We could all take a page out of her book and be better off for it.

~ Kyle M. Case: Huntsman World Senior Games, CEO I have known Karen for 20 years as a devoted mother and friend. Her strength and ability to overcome any obstacle, especially the race of her life, is remarkable. She is truly an inspiration to all, and the world is a better place because of her.

~ Margaret C. Cianci, Executive Director, Alliance for Cancer Gene Therapy (Beaufort Books)

Karen Newman is an inspirational speaker, world record-breaking triathlete and survivor of two life-threatening diseases. Karen has been featured in numerous publications and shows, and has lectured all over the country. She has also received many awards, such as the Connecticut Sportswriter's Association's "Courage Award" and American Cancer Society's "Determination Champion" for her tireless charitable efforts. Karen is a seven-time All-American triathlete and was the 2012 Silver Medalist and top American finisher at the Age Group Triathlon World Championships in Auckland, NZ. She followed in 2013 as a gold medalist for the United States in both triathlon and the 5k road race at the National Senior Games in Cleveland, OH, and then repeated with golds in both events at the Huntsman World Senior Games, while breaking the world record in the women's triathlon there. As a triathlon coach and Registered Dietitian with a Master's Degree in Clinical Nutrition, Karen has had a long career educating and encouraging people in health and nutrition, as well as on the track. A University of Vermont alumnae, she married her college sweetheart, Peter, and together they have three amazing boys—Stetson, Chase, and Trent—who inspired her to survive and thrive. Â

This raw, brave story parallels the author's intense fights to achieve major athletic victories, battle life-threatening disease, and overcome deeply personal battles, including finding the will to live fully and authentically through life's potentially crushing waves. The author honestly shares painful struggles relatable to many, from bullying, a reading disorder, perfectionism, eating disorders, overwhelming and relapsing addiction, sexual assault, partner abuse, and professional and relationship sacrifices and struggles, as well as aggressive illness with pain, uncertainty, and complications. Through gritty, growing, and sometimes end-of-the rope faith and determination, and the surprising interventions of others and a God who turns out to be very different than expected, she fights tremendous challenges, including personal demons and masks that arise from doubt, fear, and inner shame. I could not put the book down until I was finished, with my teen daughter reading over my shoulder. This is a great read for launching meaningful thought and discussion about accepting both our gifts and challenges in life, while living connected with others and God in honesty, love, and faith.

Karen leaves no detail out in a humbling honest look at her challenging life. Although she has many blessings, she certainly faced numerous obstacles with bullying, eating disorders, dyslexia, and cancer. The book also serves as an education on breast cancer treatment. I had no idea how traumatic and invasive the life saving treatments were! My heart aches for the survivors and brave patients who confront this demon, and for the many more who will be diagnosed. Thank you for a glimpse into an extraordinary open and fearless life. She is truly a champion. I loved the book and could not put it down.

A Must Read. This was the most Vulnerable and Honest book i have ever read..a true act of Bravery! Newman is a warrior who's struggles are real but this is a story of overcoming odds, perseverance, grit, unimaginable strength of character and Faith. Its beautifully written and an absolute page turner. ..Could not put it down. Newman encounters Miracles because she asks for them and desperately needs them but most of all when they do come she is willing to see them and willing to be astounded by the love she that surrounds her. Newman sugar coats nothing...the good

,the bad and the down right.. not so pretty, but what emerges is a PURE Beauty. Newman is an inspiration..and her story is Universally Human. Get this book!

This book will be one you won't soon forget. Karen is incredibly and sometimes painfully honest in telling the story of her life and her journey to understanding. Is she a flawed individual? Yes, but we are all flawed so the fact that she is so willing to put it all out there, makes this story even more amazing. Her voice is so clear and positive it will make you look at your life in a different way. To see Karen's faith in action and to see the blessings God has provided her is a truly humbling thing. Thank you Karen for sharing your story. You are an amazing individual and I can't wait to see what God has planned for you in the future!

This is a compelling, can't put it down, read. An inspirational story told by a wonderful storyteller about how God works in her life to bring happiness and health, physically, mentally, and spiritually. As Karen learns more about herself she is eager to be a positive influence to others by sharing her love of God, family and friends. This book will make you cry, smile and have warm fuzzies. Thank you, Karen.

A compelling story about one woman's fight for survival in the midst of her fight to win the world triathlon championships. Traveling back and forth through time, Newman shares a riveting story facing down the demons that haunt all of us just below the happy, shiny surface of our gold medals.

Dear Karen, I was told by someone you know very well that I wouldn't be able to put your book down. He was so right, it was your Dad. We went to school together and have seen each other since at class reunions, along with your lovely Mom. I was mesmerized by your story, and my heart and my prayers will always be with you. Thank you for the honesty and caring that came forth from your book. I wish you all the best. Carole LeFrancois.

Karen is such a brave soul. Every chapter was so touching but so crazy it was hard to believe all of this could happen in real life to such an amazing person. Karen shows the power of God in every word of this book her strength has helped so many people realize dreams as well as fight any inequities in their minds. This book is a quick, easy, but powerful and thoughtful read. God Bless
